Headline:
Some sunshine on Sunday with scattered showers breaking out.

Today:
A lot of dry, bight weather across south and west Scotland with sunny spells and a few showers. Cloudier in the east with more frequent showers breaking out. Staying cool.

Tonight:
Scattered showers this evening gradually dying out over inland areas but a few will linger over the west coast and the Isles overnight. Another cold night with some frost.

Monday:
Cloudy with showery rain already into the southwest becoming heavier and more persistent, spreading steadily north and east. Cold with strong east or southeast winds.

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Rather cold with sunshine and scattered showers, these turning wintry to quite low levels for a time on Wednesday.
